Mrs. J. R. Raulston, of Birmingham, Ala., famous for her success as an ertist and for her special skill as a rose pninter, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Harry Berkeley Watkins, in Richmond.

Later in the summer Mrs. Raulston will study in Alfred, New York, with Marshall Fry, and will visit New York city. Before returning to Birmingham she will go to Chicago for some weeks to take instruction from Aulich, one of the finest of rose palmers.

rose paintors.

Work with private classes in her own studio is what Mrs. Raulston profers. To pursue her preference independently, she refused just before coming to Richmond a flattering offer of the directorship of the Art Department in San Souch College, South Carolina, tendered her by the college principal, Mrs. William Hayne Perry, Mrs. Raulston spent her early life in Danville, Va., and has still may friends and relatives in Virginia, though she went, after her marriage, to live in Chicago, and has been for some years a resident of Birmingham. She is not only a talented artist, but possesses great charm of manner and person, and must be an important social factor in any city where she elects to locate. Great pleasure is felt and expressed in Birmingham over the fact that she has declined Mrs. Perry's offer and will continue her studio classes. Her ability and success in her profession must be not only a source of gratification to herself, but a great pride and pleasure to the many who are warmly interested in her career.

COAL FORCES A NAIL INTO A MAN'S BRAIN

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SHAMOKIN. PA., August 1.—When Warren Waldelins went to work in the Corbin mine yesterday morning he stuck a horseshoe nall in his cap for the purpose of holding in position an unruly flap. As he worked a piece of coal fell and struck Waldelins on the head. The missile was not enough to inflict a serious wound had it not struck the nail in such a manner that the sprig of metal was sent into the skull of the miner.
Waldelins fell and was unconscious when found. He died in a short while, The nail had pieced the brain.

THE MONTH OF REST

August is Welcomed by Folks in King George.

CAMP - MEETING SEASON

People in Multitudes and Watermelons in Profusion-A Smart Collie Dog Burles Her Dead Pup. Personal.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) COMORN, VA., August 1 .- August is generally looked forward to by country people as a time of rest and holidays. nd the advent of the month is always welcome to the young and the old alike he growing crops are pretty generally worked out and "laid by," and the bulk of the wheat and out crop threshed out and housed by the first of August, so that the farmers, laborers and nearly all classes are ready for a month of rest. It is not at all strange, then, that August not at all strange, then that August is the time for "protracted meetings" at the country churches. Everybody who has any leigure at all, has it in August, when watermelons are ripe; so there is no such thing as the "summer revival meetings" without multitudes of people and watermelons in profusion. August, 1806, will be no exception—will be spent by rural clitzens just as all previous Augusts have been spent by preceding generations. Already the "big meetin's" have been announced for all the churches, Wharton Grove Baptist camp meeting, Wharton Grove Baptist camp meeting, in Lancaster county, opened a week ago, and has attracted vast crowds from all parts of the Northern Neck and other parts of the Northern Neck and other sections. Marvin Grove Methodist camp meeting opened yesterday, and the multi-tudes are wending their way thither. Those who cannot journey so far to a camp meeting have been amply provided for at home—"protracted meetings" at their own church and "big guns" from additionation of the section of th

The records in the clerk's office show that the first Thursday in each month has been county court-day here in King George continuously since the year 1721—i. e., for 182 years past the citizens of King George have been accustomd to attending their County Court on the first Thursday in each and every month.

The "smartest" dog in King George county is a female colle owned by Mr. Henry H. Hunter, who resides in the courthouse village. This canine's almost human intelligence has been attracting attention for several years, and its extraordinary "manners" has made it wellings famous. The road overseers, recently appointed to put the public highways of this county in order, under a system to supersede the contract system, begun their task early this week. They are required to hire necessary labor, and to pay each man 75 cents per day—eight hours to make a day. It is hoped and believed by many that the county will have better roads under this plan than it had at any time under the plan than it had at any time under the costity contract system, which was abandoned in May of this year.

Some of the "reaches" along the Potomac river, off this county, are dotted with crabbers every day until about 1 o'clock, many of whom are thus engaged "just for the sport of it," while the others are earning a livelihood by catching crabs to sell at five cents per dozen.

The Unions and the Militia.

It is time, too, that organized labor understood that any attempt by it to discredit the militia, or to punish men for belonging to it, will be resented by the American people. Denouncing and punishing the State's soldiers is as much an attack on the State as denouncing and punishing the Governor or the Supreme Court for accepting office. All are alike servants of the State. So union men or any others who assail the militia assail the State and the fiag.—Indianapolis News.

SYMPATHETIC INSANITY: STRANGE CASE REPORTED

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NEW YORK. August L-A case of inanity, induced by sympathy, was brought to light yesterday in Port Chester, when Charles Crawford was committed to the State Asylum, in Poughkeepsle, For five

State Asylum, in Poughkeepsie. For five years Crawford boarded with James Dougherty, a night watchman, who lost his mind two weeks ago from brooding over the murder of Policeman Maurice Ahearn, who was shot down in New Rochelle by Frank Raffo, the Italian burgiar. The watchman imagined that there were burgiars after him to kill him, the same as Raffo did Ahearn.
Crawford had nover exhibited a trace of insanity until Dougherty was sent away; then he began to grieve and act queerly, and on Thurstay he was taken into custody by the holice, who found him wandering almiessly in the street. When arraigned before Justice of the Peace Wakefield, he refused to talk, and sat staring at the ceiling. He was examined yesterday by Drs. Mead and Stafford, who pronounced him insane.
